

WE NOMINATE

Philip Khuri Hitti, an eminent Princetonian for well over three decades and widely known as interpreter of the East to the West and the West to the East, whose lifework has been responsible for the most meaningful "Princeton book" of the Christmas Season—"The World of Islam." This 372-page, British-printed work, edited by James Kritzeck and R. Bayly Winder, is a rare tribute to a great teacher-scholar and a great human being, for the 22 essays included therein are without exception the work of former students of Hitti's or colleagues of his in the University's far ranging Department of Oriental Studies.

The 73-year old Hitti, once described by an exhausted colleague as "perpetual motion in motion," has been one of the striking and dominant personalities on the Princeton scene since 1926. Although he officially retired from the University in 1954, he continues as the dean of American Arabists and, much like a magnet, attracts to Princeton an almost steady stream of visitors from the Islamic World, most of whom feel he is largely responsible for the introduction and rapid development of Islamic studies in the United States. In fact, it has been said that he has been more quoted in Arabic newspapers than any other spokesman for the Western World.

In a sense Hitti's career is as American as pie a la mode. Born in Shimlan, Syria—on the slopes of Mount Lebanon—he was first introduced to American institutions of learning at age eight by a broken arm. It was a compound fracture which the shepherds of his village failed to cure. Gangrene set in. A young medical graduate of the American University of Beirut recommended immediate removal to Beirut, where two operations saved the limb and his life. "My weakened physical condition," Hitti recalls, "confirmed my family in its conviction that I should earn my living by intellectual rather than manual pursuits."

Trained at the present American University at Beirut, probably the most distinguished American institution yet developed anywhere overseas, Hitti first came to this country in 1913 to represent Syria at a world student conference and remained to take his doctorate at Columbia. The next decade, highlighted in 1920 by his naturalization as an American citizen, he divided between Columbia and Beirut, finally returning to this hemisphere in 1926 with his appointment to the Princeton department he was to develop into one of the world's great centers for Oriental Studies that has introduced scores of outstanding students to Arab culture.

Princeton's pioneering Program in Near Eastern Studies, currently supported by foundations, private funds and government, stemmed from Hitti's herculean efforts during World War II when carefully selected military personnel were assembled here for training intelligence duties with Near Eastern commands. Radio Berlin—and Hitti relishes this story—was deeply impressed by the wartime program's potentialities. Nazi propagandists warned Egypt and the Near East that American troops are mastering Arabic at an institute in Princeton run by a Syrian, "who cares more for money than his country."

For meriting the tribute represented by the newly published "The World of Islam: Studies in Honour of Philip K. Hitti"; for helping bridge the gap between two great and enduring civilizations; for truly distinguished achievement in his chosen field; he is Town Topics nominee for

This Is PRINCETON

CHRISTMAS, 1959

Snow, Prosperity—and Peace.
The last Christmas of the outgoing decade had all the appearances of being one of the best. At the precise moment that winter arrived, (9:35 a.m. on Tuesday), the Weather Man had made dreams of a White Christmas
come true with a December snowstorm that blanketed the countryside with a good five inches.

In Princeton, and in all other communities throughout the land
untouched by the long steel strike, Christmas giving and Christmas dinner would symbolize the solid state of American prosperity. At a continuing high level, and present to a degree that it made the holiday season merry for almost everyone, it would be the more enjoyable if it were not taken completely for granted.

On the world scene, the year
had at least been blessed with ability on the part of participants in the Cold War to hold the line.
International relations had not shown signs of deteriorating; for the West, President Eisenhower's precedent-setting visit to neutral and allied nations had lighted a warm glow in the hearts of millions. Their first direct contact with the U.S. was a major step forward in forging the chain that, above all else, is the sure protection against nuclear war:
the Brotherhood of Man.

On the Princeton scene, as the spirit of Christmas began to pervade the atmosphere with the same bright clarity as the star
that first lighted the way 2000 years ago, it was a time for quiet rejoicing. And as the holiday season reached its anticipated climax, these assorted community developments were making news:

● The Lawrenceville School's
old gymnasium (not to be confused with the new multi-million dollar Lavino Field House) was destroyed by fire early Wednesday morning. Eighteen people of

Still Time to Help

From the 1959 Town Topics
Christmas Appeal:

"The case of eight-year old Charlie speaks not only for Charlie, a star-crossed child ever since he was born, but for many others who are groping for security and are old enough to realize that their own lives are different from the lives of most of those they see. Forgotten by his parents, and shunted through institutions for some six years, this haunted second grader is discovering his first moments of happiness with a new foster mother, whom he can't hear to have out of his sight. Together with the right kind of understanding help, they can succeed
in relieving the grinding pressures which threaten Charlie's adjustment to the world around him."

As Christmas neared, the Princeton community had contributed $2,878.93. The need for help lasts throughout the year, and there are more in need of assistance this year than ever before. Contributions may be sent to the Town

the alarm at 3:56 a.m., were still on the scene at mid-morning. The structure, a part of the Lawrenceville campus since the early years of the century, was a total loss.

● A new—and potentially one of the most important—educational center will be built here, its purpose to improve and expand the use of educational television, radio and motion pictures in this nation and abroad. Known as the Learning Resources Institute, it will serve as a headquarters
for "where educators and laymen
from the U.S. and abroad can come to see the latest material and equipment for the use of education demonstrated and on exhibit."

Among the fascinating concepts of its future: telecasts from an aircraft at high altitude to serve as many as 5,000,000 students simultaneously in half a dozen midwestern states, with eventual expansion to underdeveloped countries abroad as means of "breaking through the illiteracy barrier." Dr. John E. Ivey, former executive vice-president of New York University, has been named head of the Institute, which hopes to break ground in the Princeton area within two years. No location has been pinpointed, but the first announcement has linked the center with Educational Testing Service.

● John D. Thompson, The Great Road, has been named by the State Department to the post of Deputy Administrator of the U.S.
Economic Mission to India. A Princetonian for two decades, Mr.
Thompson left top executive positions with the Roebing Corp. and Henry Diston Sons to form his own industrial consulting firm.
Scheduled to depart in mid-January for New Delhi, he will be based in the American Embassy in administering the funds that aid agriculture, industry and health throughout India.

of them wanted. Indications were strong that the State's coveted position of ranking far down the line in the amount of per capita tax levied would be revised upward when the Legislature convenes in January. Gov. Meyer insisted he could balance a whopping 400-million plus budget without imposing new taxes, but it seemed likely that the Utopia of existing without either a sales or an income tax might be nearing an end.

● For the thousands associated in past or present with public education in Princeton Borough, the Christmas season brought word of the approaching end of an era. Since 1926, B. Woodhull Davis has supervised the complex affairs of Borough schools, now, announcement has been made that the end of 1960 will mark his retirement.

● Other Christmas notes: Princetonians who ride the fabled "P.J. & B." during the holiday season are finding the Dinky festively decorated, a tradition that has been growing happily through the years (story and illustration, page 3). . . the 21st year of Christmas caroling in the Square is set for Thursday evening. . . Santa Claus will answer calls at Walnut 4-3375 through Christmas Eve at 6 o'clock. . . and there's still time to aid Princeton's neediest through the TOWN TOPICS Christmas Fund.

ROUND-UP

Monday's unexpected snow-storm brought many a car to a standstill, sometimes in close juxtaposition to another car and sometimes straddled across a snowy road. . . The biggest pile-up occurred about 6 p.m. Monday on Route 206 near Arrington Road when a south-bound driver, apparently panicked by the swirling snow and the hilly road ahead, stopped dead in the middle of the highway, damming up a long stream of cars and trucks.

One of the trucks, forced to stop by the car at the head of the line, jack-knifed and thereby caused a second jam. . . Township police estimate that a dozen trucks, interspersed here and there with cars, snarled together along the highway. . . State highway plows and two wreckers managed to free the snarl, but it soon came together again and it was 8 p.m. before traffic was moving freely along the State Road.

Santa jumped from the Wall Street special on schedule this week. . . for the past four years, Walker W. Stevenson, Jr., 12 Littleton Place, has dressed for the part and leaped from the Reading "Wall Street" express near Dunellen to present a sack full of money to a group of six workmen from a printing company. . . the gift-giving began in 1956 when workers and train-riders began waving to each other daily.

It was spunk by a giant "DEAT VALLER" sign which the workmen posted just before the '56 Yale game. . . money is collected from passengers. . . Donald Siroch and James H. Ackerman are also on the committee with Mr. Stevenson.

Sober Princeton citizens, interested in remaining so on New Year's Eve, may pick up a Blood-Alco Chart from Township clerk's office. . . the chart shows the estimated percentage of alcohol in the blood by number of drinks in relation to body weight. . . limbers work from a complex formula using body weight, hours since the first drink, etc. . . for example: a 160-pound man (or woman!) may have eight drinks in six hours and thereby show .096 percent alcohol in the blood. . . over .150 is bad. . . impartial observers believe that anyone capable of working out the formula is sober enough not to have to.

Even if Borough Council passes the meter-marking ordinance next week, it will be several weeks before the new regulations go into effect. . . the Division of Motor Vehicles must approve first.

Snow- or winter vacations—kept about 25 percent of Valley Road's school children home on Tuesday, last day of school before vacation. . . absenteeism in the eighth grade was even "higher" — about 33 percent. . . at Little Brook School, where there was a Christmas program involving 225 well-rehearsed voices, practically everybody got to school, snow or no.

No decision yet on when the New Year will begin for Township Committee. . . Traditional ceremonies will be held for Borough Council on New Year's Day, but swearing-in may be some days later in the Township.

TOPICS Of the Town

DECORATED DINKY

Christmas Kides The Rails. There's a row of towns down the Pennsylvania Railroad, a way, happy to be called The Main Line. Princeton is a lot happier to be off it, and quite content with a shuttle that knits the town to the through tracks. Outsiders may fail to understand it; newcomers may not know it exists, but no one can live for long in this community without acquiring some feeling for the rare and nearly unique specimen of railroading, the branch line to the Junction.

Not long ago, there was a genuine cry of dismay, even from people who hadn't ridden it for years, at the rumors of supplanting the train with buses. It's quite clear that "The Dinky" is a term of endearment.

It's a five minute ride and it's different for everybody. A young member of a train-starved generation can ride to Princeton Junction and back and see the world. A commuter can focus his eyes on the new day and the headlines.

The Ladies' Day ladies have time to examine their fellows' hats. Actors at the Playmill on Alexander Street can learn to hold their breath between lines while the train rumbles past, and a waiting student on the platform can see the train's lights as it comes from the canal and wonder if his girl looks the way he remembers her.

Decorations for a Decade. But at Christmas-time the train really comes into its own. Once there was a trainman who hung up a green branch with a red bow. People liked it. It was festive. Now, some ten years later, decorating the cars is a custom that passengers and certainly the trainmen themselves wouldn't change.

There is some difference of opinion about the time chosen for the decorating: before or after the vacation exodus of the University (some 1800 outbound students in a day). We don't have any trouble with them on these cars. They wait 'til they get out on the main line". Conductor Robert E. Raywood said. However, swags of red and green paper, tinsel and the bells suspended from the overhead lights might look like fair game for holiday high spirits.

This year, there was some question about decorating at all. Under a monthly inspection system, the cars were threatened with being rolled off to the yards during Christmas week, crepe paper and all. Fortunately, Yuletide good will carried down the tracks to the proper authority, and the cars remained.

Conductor Raywood and Brakeman John Bar "if the first 'trick' begin the decorating between runs. Conductor George Day and Brakeman Walter Edwards of the second 'trick' carry on. The men themselves supply the materials fresh and new every year. Everybody has a good time.

It's worth it just to see an outsider's face when he walks in the car. Brakeman Bancroft said. "You can't see anything from outside and they get a real surprise".

As for the commuters, they really like it. It's a good way to start the day. Christmas like that. It's not bad, either, coming home on a late train. After the office party, maybe?

R. W. DAVIS TO RETIRE

A Year From Now. Plans for his retirement on December 31, 1960, were announced by E. Woodhull Davis, superintendent of Borough schools, at last Thursday's meeting of the Borough Board of Education. Board president Graham Rohrer, commending Mr. Davis for his "fine public service," said that no successor would be named until May.

Superintendent Davis, who will have served in the Princeton schools almost 32 years by next December, said he chose that time for his retirement because it would permit him to be of assistance in "bridging the gap" between the two school years. He expressed his appreciation to those who have worked with him and said that he and Mrs. Davis plan to continue to live in Princeton.

Plans for distribution of a mimeographed list showing to which schools pupils from various geographical areas are assigned were announced at the meeting by Superintendent Davis. He said that this was being done because many parents, especially those moving into the area, apparently have been misinformed as to which schools their children would attend. The list, which covers sending districts as well as Princeton Borough and Township, will be placed in all real estate offices and in the municipal offices of the Borough and Township.

The appointment of Miss Dorothy Lynch as secretary at Nassau Street School was also announced.

show, according to a letter from the K of C read at the school board meeting, is to value $35,000 for equipment for a cardio-pulmonary wing at St. Peter's Hospital, New Brunswick.

PASSED AS AMENDED

One More Zoning Hearing, Township Committee passed an ordinance amending the zoning ordinance Monday night, incorporating into it several recommendations by the Planning Board as well as some of its own. There will be another public hearing, scheduled for next Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. If Committee does not pass the current ordinance as amended, the procedure will have to begin all over again because of personnel changes in the Committee after the first of the year. Hugh Wise, Jr., appearing for Miss Fine's and Princeton County D. Schools, asked that the Colross property on the Great Road, now owned by Miss Fine's, be zoned for education along with adjacent property. Mr. Wise said the school hopes to acquire nearby land in the future.

In the same vein, Henry M. Stratton, appearing for Princeton Theological Seminary, asked that the Seminary's 90 acres on the Great Road also be zoned for educational purposes. Mr. Stratton and Dr. James McCord, president of the Seminary, told Committee that the Seminary hopes to start construction for both academic buildings and housing on the site some time in 1960, although plans have not reached the drawing board stage.

Township Committee recommended that the Planning Board study the question of educational zoning and whether educational use should be permitted anywhere in the Township provided certain standards are met.

Also referred to the Planning Board for consideration was the request made by E. L. Gulek, Jr., 1082 Princeton - Kingston Road, to have part of his property zoned for research.

"It would be better to have research there," Mr. Gulek told Committee. "I own 40 houses with 80 kids to fill up the schools. Besides, we don't want any Federal housing in that section and if you zone it for research, there won't be any."

THREE FINED

In Violation Round-Robbin. In the process of charging Willie Armstrong, 28, 421 Alexander Street, with reckless driving, police uncovered three more motor vehicle violations.

In addition to the reckless driving charge for which he was fined $40, Mr. Armstrong was fined $20 for driving without a license. In tracing the registration of the car, police found that it belonged to Gerhart Enterprises, Inc., 222½ Nassau Street, a car-rental organization that had illegally rented the car to an unlicensed driver. Edith Mae Mase, 20, 31 Green Street, Gerhart, Inc. acknowledged the violation, for which Magistrate Theodore T. Tams fined it $50 and $5 court costs. For her role in the deception—permitting an unlicensed driver to operate a car—Miss Mase was also fined $50 and $5 court costs.

Also in traffic court, Robert L. Moore, 23, 115 Alexander Street, was fined $15 for improper passing and Hooker Torrance, 30, Lawrenceville School, $25, for passing on a double white line. James Paxson, 16 Bank Street, pleaded guilty to a drunk and disorderly charge in criminal court. Magistrate Tams waived the fine but ordered Paxson to pay $10 court costs.

Princetonians will have their first White Christmas in several years as a result of Monday's five-inch snowfall, followed by a temperature drop that took the thermometer all the way down to nine on Wednesday.

New Of The THEATRES

"BEGGAR" COMES TO TOWN

Children's Play to be Given.
 "The Beggar-Boy of Bagdad," a play for children starring teenage performers, will be given next Wednesday at 3 p.m. at the Garden Theater. "Beggar Boy" is the first play of the season for the Princeton Children's Theater under the guidance of Mrs. Constance Loux.
 The three-act play, with music and dancing, was written by Mrs. Loux from the Arabian Nights folk tales. It tells the story of a young prince who dresses in the ragged rags and goes out into the streets of Bagdad to find adventure among his people.

In the course of his wanderings, he encounters a magic cave, a powerful Genie and a wicked magician. The play, which has been given in summer stock before young audiences in three states, is the first "live" production to be given in the Garden Theatre in many years. In the cast are Lynda Almgren as the Princess; Tyler Gatchell, magician; Jayne Andrews, jigsaw-wielding; Bill Groff, Abdul the Merchant; Claire Alden, Scheherazade; Sally Kronman, the dog and Virginia Corbett, dancer. John Andrews is in charge of lighting.

THE PLAYHOUSE

L'I'l Ahner (December 22-29) is fine fun for those who are attracted to the style of the Al Capp comic strip and what red-blooded, true-blue citizen of the U.S. of A. is not? Writers-directors-producers Melvin Frank and Norman Panama, who were behind the Broadway musical of "L'I'l Ahner," have done a good job of adapting Capp's humor to the screen and the flawless and imaginative technical production perfectly captures the appearance and spirit of Dogpatch, U.S.A.

The cast is composed chiefly of talented newcomers, most of whom were in the stage play. An idea of what's involved can be implied from the names of the characters alone: Ahner himself (Peter Palmer), son of Ma and Pa Yokum; Daisy Mae (Leslie Parrish), prettiest girl in Dogpatch; General Bull Moose (Howard St. John), the richest man in the world, who believes "what's good for Bull Moose is good for the U.S.A."; Appassionata von Climax (Stella Stevens), the general's eyeflicking executive secretary; General Jubilation T. Cornpone, who won the Civil War singlehandedly for the North by surrendering his Confederate troops at every opportunity, and, among others, Earthquake McGoon, the world's champion dirty wrestler; Hairless Joe, Evil Eye Fleagel, Lonesome Polcat and Marryin' Sam (Shubby Kaye).
 The plot, in the tradition of Capp's not-too-subtle political satires, is incredibly involved and hinges on the fact that the Army has decided to use Dogpatch as a testing ground for hydrogen bombs because it is the most useless place in the country. While the residents are conceiving plots to save their homes, there are a number of pleasant if unmemorable songs and some excellent dancing. "L'I'l Ahner" is in Technicolor and VistaVision.

The Miracle (December 30-January 9), a new screen adaptation of the well-known play first produced in 1911, is lavishly produced in Technicolor and Technicolor. The excellent cast includes Carroll Baker, Roger Moore, Walter Slezak, Vittorio Gassman, Katina Paxinou and Dennis King.

The story, originally set in the early Eighteenth Century, has been updated to 1812 apparently to enable the scriptwriters to insert some topical references to Napoleon's invasion of Spain. Miss Baker, a postulant in a convent, deserts her calling to follow an English soldier (Moore) she had nursed in the convent hospital. At the time she leaves, the statue of the Virgin disappears from its pedestal in the chapel. The Virgin takes on the form of the postulant, and thus no one is aware Miss Baker has run off.

But run off she does, to an incredible series of adventures involving gypsy musicians, aristocrats, hooligans, the dashing soldier himself, French soldiers and café owners. After the requisite number of spectacular battle and bulling scenes, the officer proposes marriage, but by now Miss Baker is ready to return to the convent. Irving Kapper was the director.

News Of The Theatres

THE GARDEN
The Hound at the Baskervilles (December 21-26) is an intermittently horrific adaptation of the Sherlock Holmes story by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. Leading roles in the Technicolor British film are taken by Peter Cushing, Andre Morell, Christopher Lee and Marla Landi. The hound, who is the most continually diverting member of the cast, is uncredited.

Sir Henry Baskerville (Lee) is the final heir to an estate whose previous holders have been plagued by horrible deaths at the fangs of the legendary "hound of hell." Understandably nervous, Sir Henry employs Holmes (Cushing) to protect him. It looks for a while as if old Sherlock is going to fluff the job but after about an hour he comes face to face with the snarling brute, lays aside his pipe and dispatches the animal. Dr. Watson (Morell) paces about anxiously during the story, but since British reserve has triumphed over dry wit since the days when he was played by Nigel Bruce, we are forced to rely for comic relief on Miles Mollison, a village bishop turned entomologist. While the cast performs ably under the guidance of director Terence Fisher, the pace is slowed by Peter Bryan's often dull screenplay.

The Jayhawkers (December 28-30) is an indifferently acted but originally conceived Western produced by Norman Panama and Melvin Frank, who were also responsible for "Li'l Abner." The interesting "drop for the story is pre-Civil War "Bloody Kansas," where tempers and rifles flared after Stephen Douglas Kansas-Nebraska Act, which was intended to allow the voters of the two states to decide whether slavery would be permitted within their borders. The situation is explored through the ostensibly true story of Luke Darcy, an obscure raider from neighboring Mississippi.

The plot, which stretches credibility from time to time, is not made more believable by the stars, Jeff Chandler, Fess "Davy Crockett" Parker, Nicole Maurey and Henry Silva, none of whom is due for an Academy Award. Darcy (Chandler) dreams of carving an empire for himself out of the raging confusion and doesn't especially care what means he has to use. Parker, who plays the good guy with all the viciousness of a cigar-store Indian, is at first charmed by Chandler's personality but eventually comes to detest the adventurer's cruelty. Miss Murray is a French widow (was the Old West as full of pretty French girls as recent films would indicate?) who is trying to make a go of it with her two children. She too decides that Chandler is a bad 'un. The film is in VistaVision and the scenery is gorgeous.

There will be no Wednesday matinee of "The Jayhawkers." Instead, the Garden will present the Children's Theatre production of "The Beggar Boy of Bagdad," produced and directed by Constance Loux with a cast of Princeton area young people.

examining the tire, police determined that it had come from a Jeep and also noticed the name
Valentine on it. A Willys Jeep, minus the spare tire that is usually found mounted on the side, was subsequently located by police in the parking yard at Miss

Police said the Jeep had been driven by Miss Susan Valentine,

She was issued a summons
for failing to stop at the scene of an accident.

IT'LL STILL BE MERRY

At Princeton Hospital. Despite the surroundings, it will be a Merry Christmas for the patients of Princeton Hospital. Every unit will have a trimmed and lighted
Christmas tree.

A special Christmas menu has been prepared and unlimited visiting hours (10 a.m. to 9 p.m.) will be in effect for Christmas Day.
Administrator John W. Kauffman will visit every patient in both the hospital and Merwick, and will present each with a gift.

Community groups have not forgotten the patients and have contributed candy, surprise gift packages for the children, specially trimmed Christmas trees and hand-made nut cups, while the Intermediate Troop 3 of the Girl
Scouts have made an attractive Christmas mobile to entertain the tiny pediatric patients. A battered recent case is being cheered by some Santa and holly decorations
painted on his windows.

At Merwick, church, Girl Scouts and YMCA youth groups have entertained the guests. The Scrip-tist Club conducted its third annual tree-trimming party complete with refreshments on Friday.

CHRISTMAS PARTY HELD

By First National Bank. The First National Bank of Princeton held its annual Christmas party Thursday in the lobby of the main office. As Santa Claus, President John F. Poe distributed the small gifts that the staff exchanged
among themselves.

Later, to the accompaniment of music, a buffet supper was served. Highlight of the event was the distribution of Christmas bonuses by Mr. Poe, a Christmas gift from the Bank amounting to 2% of each employee's annual salary.

RANK EMPLOYEES HONORED

At PB&T Christmas Party. At the

EAGLE BADGE AWARDED

To Alan Darke by Father. At a special ceremony in Trinity Church last Thursday, Alan Darke, 15, of 61 Laurel Circle, was awarded Scouting's highest rank, the Eagle Badge. Colonel F. J. Darke, Jr., Alan's father and himself a former Eagle Scout, presented the award to his son.

In another ceremony of Troop 50's Family Night, an evening of entertainment and demonstration of scout skills, Karol Krotki and Gerald Cameron, two new scouts, were inducted into the Troop as Tenderfeet. In this induction and the Eagle ceremony, Scoutmaster Richard Sly and Assistant District Commissioner Leslie L. Vienne emphasized how much Scouting costs in developing outdoor skills, leadership and moral values.

Other features included a demonstration of silent signals by the Flaming Arrows, a quartet from the Blue Fox Patrol, and a Beaver Patrol skit entitled, "Why Scoutmasters Get Gray Hair." Their hilarious impersonation of a scout getting ready for a camping trip was almost too realistic, scoutmasters and parents agreed.

The final event was a movie on the 50th National Scout Jamboree, to be held in Colorado next summer. Troop 50 hopes to send at least five scouts to the event, which over 50,000 scouts from all over the United States will attend.

DANCE GROUP TO MEET

At Miss Fine's, The Princeton Folk Dance Group will hold its weekly gathering next Monday from 8 to 10:30 in Miss Fine's School Gymnasium. Open to all interested, the group charges 35 cents admission for each person. Details may be secured from Bruce Rankin, WA 4-2700, Ext. 2261, or Roland Gunther, SW 3-1710.

The group meets informally every week, at Miss Fine's in the winter and outdoors at the Graduate School in the summer. Partner and circle dances from many countries are included, as well as American square dances.

DR. SMITH GAINS GRANT

For Arteriosclerosis Study. Dr. De Witt H. Smith of Drakes Corner Road has been awarded a $78,445 grant from the U. S. Public Health Service for a five-year research project on the causes of arteriosclerosis.

Attached to the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute, Dr. Smith is studying the experimental production of arteriosclerosis and allied cardiovascular disorders.

A BOOK, A DOLL AND A BIKE: A book about America is one of the things Bill Gaines (left) lists as wanting this Christmas while a Ginny Doll is the only present Mary Sperry would like to find under her Christmas tree. Kip Davis wants a bigger bike so that he can "keep up" with the rest. To see what presents other first graders at Nassau Street School hope Santa Claus brings this year, see below.

Question of the Week

Question: What do you want for Christmas?

Where asked: Mrs. Constance Brock's first grade class, Nassau Street School.

Mary Sperry, 88 Moore Street: I want a Ginny Doll. Nothing else. Bill Gaines, 59 Wiggins Street: I want a "Go to the Head of the Class" game. It doesn't matter whether it is series seven, series eight or series nine. Any series is OK. And a giant-wheel horse race game and a book about America. That's all.

Fanny Abrams, 35 University Place: I want a real life doll because they're very big and I like dolls. I want a Remco penny machine. And I want—I don't know what it's called but Bill Gaines wanted one—I think it's picture bingo. I want some jewelry, a toy watch and a Ginny Doll and that's all.

Larry Rose, 112 Calverly Drive: A basketball with a basket. A gun and a holster, and I want that gun you see on television when you push your tummy, it flops out. And I want a Remco Maxwell Drive-In Theater and that's all.

Betty Schleyer, 184 Prospect Avenue: I'd like a big doll and I've shown my mommy the one I want. Some more Mrs. Ginger clothes and funny glasses with eyes in them and some high heels so I can dress up. And a doctor's kit. That's all.

Kip Davis, 11 College Road: I want a bike because the other one I got I just don't like. Everybody has a bigger bike and I can't keep up to them. So I want a bigger and better bike. I'd like some skis, too, and I guess that's all.

Margaret Rosenthal, 43 Jefferson Road: I would like a Ginny Doll and I would like . . . let's see . . . I would like—I can't decide what I want. Let's see . . . maybe a new dress. Let's see . . . a ball. I think. Uh . . . I don't think anything else.

Fred Eberhart, 110 Prospect Avenue: A Remco Coney Island Penny Machine, a Foreign Legion set, a set of army soldiers, a Shave Canyon Glider Helmet and that's all, I think.

Sharon Donald, 54 Patton Avenue: A doll house and a game of animal size that you can pick out different heads and a Parachute Coloring set and a big doll crib. I guess that's all.

William Tegen Jr., 46 Markham Road: One of those basketball playing things that you can move the basketball men from side to side.

Lisa Vasey, 23 Clay Street: A Tiny Tears Doll, a suitcase, a baby carriage, a record player, a tea set, a bracelet, a dress, a sweater, a chopping board, a stove, a washing machine and a book—and that's all.

Toby Roberts, 8 Edgell Street: I'd like to get a penny machine and a Yankee Doodle Rocket Set. I want to get this little truck that you turn a little thing and it goes up—a dump truck! I want a box of letters, an alphabet box—A B C D E F G H I . . . some chalk, two books. Uh, I want a freerunner and a game of "Sorry." And a stick that when you pull it, it will blast; you put a cap in it and it goes off. Mine is all broken. And a machine that

Naming Names

One of Princeton's numerous research firms released a story earlier this month to the effect that teenagers have little knowledge of the activities of America's leading companies.

Apparently, the research firm should have conducted the survey among first-graders. When Town Topics' Inquiring Reporter went to the Nassau Street School to ask the younger set what was on their Christmas list, he came away with one firm impression: "They sure know their brand names!"

When you press buttons things go off. And I forgot one thing: I want a pen.

Patricia Wilson, 29 Green Street: A baby with rock-a-bye eyes and a baby carriage and a record player. A sweater and that's all.

David Claghorn, 43 Vandeventer Avenue: I want a Remco Penny Machine, a Remco Fighter jet and down, a Remco Fighter jet and some chalk. One of these guns when you pull the trigger, the thing goes off and it spins real fast. And one of these things you push the button and it blasts off and you can talk to it in the air. You really can't talk to it but the thing makes a lot of noise. It's a little handle and you turn it around and around. And one of those things you can use in the West—a telephone. When you turn the handle the bell rings, turn another thing and it talks. That's all.

Edward Ashmead, 28 Scott Lane: An Indian chief's hat, a cowboy suit and a ball.

Johnny Stellerwerf, 13 Park Place: I want an electric train so I can run one and a model airplane that you can glue together. A penny machine and a box of paint and paint brushes. A rocket. Nothing else.

More On Volunteer System:
To The Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

The letter of Dr. Simson in the December 10th issue of your publication is the very rebuttal I should have written to the criticism, published earlier, of my original thoughts. I in no way meant to find fault with those who evince so much public spirit in their service as volunteers. My only point was that the system we now have, even though as good as it can possibly be, must necessarily provide for a time lag between the report of a fire and the departure of fire equipment. This Mr. Mooney admitted in his letter. It is this time lag with which I am concerned.

By its very nature and because it is a receiver of public monies, the fire department is answerable to the taxpayers for its form of organization and its operation. It is the privilege of any taxpayer to know just how the system is run and with his fellow taxpayers to decide whether it, in their opinion, is adequate to their needs. This information should be widely disseminated and should not require any searching to be learned. The procedure followed in reporting fires and the time interval between the first report and the dispatch of equipment should be known by all. Open discussion decide whether or not this interval is tolerable in their right and duty. So also is the matter of whether the equipment — not including ladders — which is carried by police cars is sufficient for rescue of people trapped in upper story rooms.

The sums estimated to bring in adequate professionals need not approach those suggested. I grew up in a small Connecticut town which was about the size of present-day Princeton. When the people there realized that their volunteer system was not suitable to their needs, they employed a small number of full-time men to supplement it. For these positions the volunteers were given first consideration.

This system has been followed to the present day though the community has grown to 40,000. The volunteer companies continue to exist and provide valuable supplementary strength. The townspeople merely decided that they could not accept the risk to life that an on-all-volunteer system involved.

From conversations I have had with numerous people of the community, I believe there is a need to bring the whole question out in the open. Let the complete picture be placed before them and let the citizens, as those most directly concerned, decide whether they are content with things as they are.

If the present arrangement is all that is claimed for it, it has nothing to fear from public scrutiny. No criticism will be leveled against anyone, and the whole question will be solved by the democratic process by which we govern ourselves.

Township's Judgment Questioned
To The Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

We have been following with interest the discussion of a proposal for extending sewer mains into the outlying Township areas to include, among other streets, the northern end of The Great Road, Heather Lane and Ridgeview Road. To extend these facilities to these areas is impractical, uneconomical and ill-advised.

For an example, to provide Heather Lane alone with mains would probably require an expenditure of more than $100,000 for merely the mains, pumping facilities, house laterals, engineering, etc., as needed, for that specific street and this would be increased to include the additional sum for the trunk main on The Great Road, an almost unpopulated two-mile arterial street. Heather Lane and its adjacent segment of Cherry Valley Road is 4,400 feet in length, all hard bed rock requiring the dynamiting of each and every foot of mains and house connections. The terrain slopes away from town, requiring a mechanical pumping station.

Why has it been felt necessary to even consider this sewer? The few houses on Heather Lane all have facilities which are working without complaint. A recent problem was judged by the Township Health Officer as a defective septic system, while in fact it was found to be a broken pipe. Can this error in judgment by one inexperienced Township employee be the impetus for a tremendous sewer expense?

We question the qualifications of the Township Engineering office and Health Officer to freely make these preliminary studies and to draw these erroneous conclusions.

Our Township cannot afford the luxury of unnecessary expense and we call on the elected officials to thoroughly investigate all phases of this entire sewer plan, consider all other means now generally used by other communities for sewage disposal and to immediately halt all further planning and proposals until the results of this investigation can be reported.

UPSET FINALISTS RECEIVE TROPHY: Andover's hockey team, unseeded in the Lawrenceville Tournament, reached the finals last week with victories over Nichols School and Lawrenceville before bowing to Ridley. Above are: Hugh Harrison, co-captain; Coach Ted Harrison (no relation); Hugh Wise, co-captain; and Harry Fraker, representing the tournament committee. Harrison and Wise are two of the six Princeton Country Day School alumni on the Andover squad.

SPORTS

In Princeton

HOCKEY NEWS IS GOOD

Princetonians Surprise. The hockey faithful for whom Baker Rink is a second home during the winter season had good cause to rejoice last weekend. At Cambridge, Mass., where Princeton played highly-regarded Boston University on Harvard's Watson Rink, the Tigers sprang a notable upset in blanking the Terriers, 3 to 0.

Here at home, Andover's entry in the Lawrenceville Tournament, unseeded in the preliminary ratings, reached the final of the championship round largely on a basis of the depth of its capable squad. Six Princeton area residents, all of them graduates of Princeton Country Day School, are skating for Andover this year.

B. U. Rink High. Rated among the top four teams in the east this season, Boston University had won its first three games before taking on the Tigers, who had played fast-skating Boston College the night before, losing, 8 to 2. The whitewash was the first B.U. had experienced in three years, and it is necessary to go back to the war year of 1943 to find Princeton's last previous victory over the Terriers.

High-scoring Bob Marquis, an All-American as a junior, was Boston University's chief threat but a 'spotlight defensive job by the Orange and Black blanked the Beantown sextet. Goalie Barry Van Gorbis was credited with 41 saves, and the defensive pairs of Tom Campbell and Chris Gordon, Paul Burgett and Page Chapman likewise turned in fine performances.

It was natural that it should be Captain John McBride who broke the scoreless tie that had lasted a minute into the third period. He did it on a solo effort, beating the B.U. goalie with a fine display of speed and deception.

Jim Wadsworth of the third line and Campbell collaborated on the second Princeton goal at 11:41, the former scoring on a backhand flip from 15 feet out after taking a pass from Campbell. Two minutes later, Pete Cook put the puck on Tony Pell's slick and a slap shot that was screened from the loser's goalie found the nets from 25 feet away. It was a great triumph for the Princetonians.

Day before, Boston College broke away from a 1-1 deadlock early in the second period with three goals in six minutes and then added four more in the third round. Bill Miller and Tony Pell scored for the Orange and Black, which was outshot by the wide margin of 67 to 28.

The Tigers will be inactive until New Year's weekend when they have successive road games against St. Lawrence and Clarkston, two upper New York State powers. If their farm in the E.U. contest holds, they'll be a factor in the Ivy League race for the first time in four years.

RIDLEY THE VICTOR

In Lawrenceville Tournament. Displaying form that was superior to many a college freshman team, Ridley College School of St. Catharines, Ont., won the 12th annual Lawrenceville Hockey Tournament in Baker Rink. The Canadian team, a fine combination of speed and solid stickwork in trouncing Chateau, 9-0, the first victory of Toronto's Torontos School, 6-1, in the semi-finals Friday; and Andover, 4-0, Saturday afternoon to win the Piel Memorial Trophy.

Andover a top layer of Nichols School of Buffalo, earning a 5-3 triumph by virtue of a stronger attack. George Peterson of Hope was a member of the victors' second line, was credited with a goal and an assist, with defenseman Charlie Stuart of Princeton also scoring for the Massachusetts sextet.

Lawrenceville, ousting second-seeded Belmont Hill for its first opening-round victory in the history of the tournament, faced Andover Friday night in the semi-finals.

finals. After a scoreless first round, Andover took a 2-0 lead which was shaved to 2-1 when Charlie Kessler of the Blue inadvertently latted the puck into his own gate in an attempt to clear it.

Lawrenceville then withdrew its goalie in the last 65 seconds but Andover hit the open cage to make it a 3-1 final. The University of Toronto Schools blanked Lawrenceville, 8-0. Saturday morning for third place, while Taft won the consolation championship by defeating Nichols, 2 to 1. The Chone School, also loser of all three of its games as was Nichols, was the eighth entry in the tournament.

QUINTET HEADS SOUTH

Will play in Tennessee. Two of the nation's top basketball teams will play host to Princeton next week. The Tigers will be at Knoxville Monday night to face Tennessee and at Nashville the following evening to play Vanderbilt.

In their final game before the holidays, they had little trouble in defeating Rutgers, 79 to 63, largely because the visitors were markedly weak on defense. Princeton center Larry Brennan took advantage of the Scarlet's weakness under the boards to pour in 25 points—not only the first time in his two seasons on the squad that he had hit for double figures but a total that was one point above the 24 he had made in four previous games this season.

It was 36-31 for the home team at half-time, and the margin widened thereafter, approaching 20 points before the losers shaved it slightly at the end. The outcome gave the Tigers a 2-3 mark as they played their final home game before entertaining Penn on January 13.

OPTIMISM DISPELLED

For Basketball Renaissance. With the holidays here, the Princeton High School basketball team (1-3 for December) will not resume play until January 6 when it meets Freddie at Highstown; two days later it will entertain Hamilton High School. A few people will look upon this 18-day respite as a timely opportunity for the Little Tigers to get in some much needed practice in shooting, rebounding and ball handling—so hone the dull edge of their attack; most observers probably will look upon it as a stay of execution.

Any lingering hopes that the present basketball team would measurably improve on last season's lackluster 4-15 record were cruelly dispelled Friday night by

Miss Breidenburg Wins

Elmore Breidenburg, 137 Jefferson Road, a senior at Princeton High School, came within three tenths of a second of equalling the State record. Saturday in the 50-yard Championship for Junior Women held at the Ridgewood YMCA, Miss Breidenburg won the event with a sparkling 29.3 performance—just three-tenths of a second off the record time for this event.

The race was the most exciting in the ton-year record, conducted under the sanction of the New Jersey Association of the Amateur Athletic Union. Even until the final 15 yards, it narrowed to a duel between Miss Breidenburg and Miss Jane Webster of Ridgewood, recent victor in a Princeton A.A.U. meet and reputed to be the State's outstanding young swimmer.

It was sweet victory for Elmore, who had been beaten previously by Miss Webster. She is a charter member of the Princeton YMCA Flying Fish Club which she represented in the state meet.

a 68-18 massacre of the Blue and White by a band of hachetmen from Trenton High School on the letter's court. From the moment Fred Price's giraffe - tall Tornadoes came on the floor, the question that buzzed among the huge home-town crowd was not who would win but by how much.

In the opening seconds of the game, Trenton guard Tal Brody stole the ball from a mesmerized Little Tiger for an easy layup and the first two points of the game. Moments later, Trenton stole the ball again for two more easy points whereupon PHS after only 55 seconds had elapsed, took time out to put an end to the embarrassing larceny. Nothing changed, however, as the Tornadoes swept to a 12-0 lead and only Jimmy Barbour's layup shot kept the visitors from being blanked in the first period.

Nor did Princeton High's fortunes improve in the second period: a push shot by Bruce Sandvick, a set by Ted Merceith, (later captain for the game), a jump basket by Ronald Becks and a foul by Jack Lackey were the only points it could garner. The Trenton five in a fine display of passing, shooting and ball-hawking, widened the gap to 32-0 by half time, even though Coach Price had benched his starting team midway in the second period.

No Change in Second Half. The second half was a duplication of the first. Trenton regulars ran wild for a few minutes and then sat out the rest of the game. Jack Lackey's two baskets accounted for all its final period's four points.

In a preliminary Jayvee game the Little Tigers beat the Princeton JV's 35-24. Gil Fischer was high for Princeton with 17 points.

Little Tigers Lose to Freehold. In a tip-and-dunk contest against Freehold High School, the Little Tigers fell behind in the final quarter and dropped their second game of the season, 80 to 30. In marked contrast to the player experimentation that marked the first two games, Coach Borzak made only two substitutions.

Jack Lackey continued to lead the Little Tigers in scoring by getting 15 points. Jimmy Barbour had his best performance to date in connecting for 12. He and Lackey were the only two to hit double figures.

The addition includes an auditorium, classrooms and a nursery as well as rooms for the board of trustees, committee rooms and church offices. The auditorium is painted a soft yellow and has folding partitions so that it can be divided into classrooms. The other classrooms and the nursery are in the basement. The stairway to the basement is lighted by an overhead bubble-type lamp which also provides light for a planter of green plants at the head of the stairs. ## "I hate Christmas...

my mistress always gets perfume, perfume, perfume. I hate perfume, especially

Angeliques Black Satin. When she wears that one

I'm really left alone. Nothing
but dates,
dates, dates,
morning, noon
and night.

For her it's just go, go, go.

Sometimes she puts a drop of it under my ear,
just where I can't lick it off. And then, even I have trouble fighting off
the fire-plug crowd. So I know what this

Angelique does for her. I'm sick, sick, sick of perfume and this lonely life. Why can't she smell like a dog and stay home with me?"

P.S. If she just can't stay home, get her
